

Week beginning 12th March

In English we have focused on non-fiction text, learning about a scientist named Mary Anning. In small groups we worked together to find out more information about where and when she was born, her early life, what she discovered and why we remember her. Next week we will be writing a non-chronological report.

The focus in Maths has been on learning that the equals sign means the same. We looked at different number sentences, identifying the number sentences that were equal.

We are looking forward to sharing all the science homework next Monday, and a week full of investigation, learning and fun! Don't forget you are welcome to join us on Tuesday 20th March between 2-3pm, where you can join us in taking part in many different science experiments.
