

Good afternoon

As you know, this week the teachers have been revisiting our approach to home learning now that some of our children have returned to school. I just wanted to talk you through what you will see on the website from now on.

There will be three different overviews for each year group: English, Maths and Wider Curriculum. Each of these overviews will give you access to a whole week of learning which can be done in any order, unless stated. Each page will also show what learning will be covered by the class teacher if your child is in school, so you don't need to do it. If your child is not yet at school you are able to do all of the activities - if you would like.

Year R will continue to share the planning on Tapestry, and Years 1 and 2 will post their learning on the website, just as they always have done, on a Sunday evening. I have attached an example - year 1 English - to this email for you to have a sneak preview of what it will look like - but remember this is next week's learning!

But please remember - this is for your guidance only. If you cannot do everything, then don't. If you are following your own learning pattern then there is no need to change. If you are having a 'week off' there is no need to feel guilty. Having the children back in school has shown us one thing - children never stop learning!

Enjoy your weekend

With love from Jacky
